

MUSICAL CHAIRS - MEET THE ARTISTS

Zsofia Veres - Chair #1

Zsofia Veres aspiration is to become a successful graphic designer. She currently attends Antelope Valley College to pursue an AA Degree, and plans to transfer to California State University Northridge in the fall of 2023 to receive a Bachelor's in Graphic Design. Music has always been her first love, and her piece represents an organized Orchestra.

Marco Antonio Aguilar - Chair #2

Marco grew up in the small Caribbean nation of Belize. He cannot remember a time when he was not involved in something creative and has been drawing ever since he could hold a pencil. Marco studied art at St. John's College, and it was there that he fell in love with the acrylic medium. A true renaissance man, he is also an award-winning stage actor, director, choreographer and set designer, in addition to his accomplishments in the art world.

Marco is a contemporary realist painter who focuses on the elements and nature. He uses the play of light, shadow and texture to create playful wildlife portraits, as well as, land and seascapes that capture the imagination. He also loves painting still life, recreating the textures, with unique lighting and perspective.

Marco's collectors range from the United States to his native, Belize to Australia to Europe. His artwork has been featured in Artist's Magazine, and several art publications for North Light Books, including Acrylicworks: The Best of Acrylic Painting, and Art Journeys: Animals. Marco is also an accomplished instructor, specializing in acrylic painting, and teaches at online and in-person seminars, workshops, and conventions throughout the United States and Internationally. Through his artwork, Marco aspires to focus public awareness on the Earth's natural beauty and the need for global conservation. He is a proud member of the Ocean Artists Society and the International Guild of Realism.
